And saw the fair landscape all parched and bare, For the curse of Jehovah had long lingered there. The once mellow valleys were hardened to iron: From Gilead's rich pastures, now loathsome for meanne The sheep-flocks are panting in shade of the mount While shepherds lie fainting beside the the dry fountain The fig-tree and olive have long ceased their fruitage And clusters of Eschol come not to the vintage. Siloam's fair lillies disdain now to bloom,

And Shawn's sweet roses with-hold their perfume; No garner with wheat can the husbandman fill; And the grinding of barley has ceased at the mill. The youth and the maiden no more in the dances, Exchange with each other most sorrowful glances: The widow and orphan feel famine's deep traces, And die without pity in want's slow embraces. Now the bride and the bridegroom no festives invite; And the harp and the viol no music excite, The pale gloomy silence that reigns everywhere, Is only relieved by the howl of despair. How shorn of that beauty thou hadsi, Palestina, When the tribes of Jehovah revered his Shehina And Prophets and Priests by His spirit inspired Taught the people the law and the love of the Lord. O Israel desuded for thee do I lanquisn:

To the God of thy fathers I turn in lone anguish No power can arrest the sure doom now impending Dut Him whose long suffering is over thee bending Haste then to the mount of decision straightway; And choose ye what God ye will worship to-day; Aud on that decision hereafter depending, The curses or blessings upon you descending. They cry unto Baal, but Baal cannot hear them, Then the God of Elijah sends fire from heaven; They shout and receive them with loud acclamate The people turn nomeward thro' showers of rain, The rising sun frowned on a cursed desolation, But settled in smiles oer a blest reformation.

AN ESCAPED LOCOMOTIVE.
DESTRUCTION TURNED ASIDE. The Cincinnati Gazette gives the following account of a locomotive engine in its travels on the Little Miami Railroad:

Oct 26th, 1858.

"The engine 'Washington,' belonging to the Marietta and Cincinnati road, started down the track some half or three quarters of a mile, for the purpose of bringing the empty cars to the depot preparitory to making up the 6.15 train, the engine being un-der the control of a man employed about the yard, and not the regular engineer .-About half a mile from the depot, the man in elarge discovered an engine of the Little the air around And the influence of a wo. presence! - Dr. Watts. A minute after, the two en gines came together, when the impetus lowing forme which the unbalanced fluids assume and many not here mentioned, that have more or less fever or pain, are as easily subdued by the New Medical Salt as fire is extinguished by water, to wit: Brain Fever, Headache, Rush of Blood to the Head and Heart, Fits, Inflamed Eyes, Ears and Nose. Bronchitis, Pleurisy, Asthma, Inflamed Lungs and Liver, Heartburn, Coughs, Dyspepsia, Veneral Disease, Rheumatism, Gout, Scrofula, Salt Rheam and all itching, and other cutaneous emphoris.

Seeing his danger, reversed, and jumped from the machine. A minute after, the two en given to the Mariatta engine, together with the force of the revised power, started it towards the depot with the velocity of a rocket. The down grade gave it additional headway, and it hounded along the track like a finel and it bounded along the track like a field incarnate, belohing forth fire and smoke to the distance of twenty or thirty feet from the track, and literally bounding from the iron rails, threatening destruction to everything that impeded its progress. Experiwho saw this engine on its lightning travels, say that it could not have been going at a less rate than seventy five to one hundred miles an hour. Its final bringing up shows that their calculations could not have been far out of the way. had been made up, and about one hundred passengers had already taken their seats.—

A Caution to Young Men.

A young medical student from Michigan, had been attending lectures in New York for some time, and considered himself very good looking and fascinating, made a deep impression on the heart of a blooming young lady who was boarding in the same house with him. After a prolonged siege the lady surrendered. They were married on Wednesday morning. The same afternoon the "young wife" sent for and exhibited to the astonished student a "beautiful little daughter," three and a half years

"Good heavens I then you were a widow," exclaimed the astonished student.

"Yes my dear, and this is Amelia, my youngest; to-morrow, Augustus, James and once more."

The unhappy student replied not a word : his feelings were too deep for utturance.-The next day the "darlings" arrived. Reuben was six years old, James nine, aud Audelighted to hear they had a "new papa" because they could now live at home and

"Well, no," said the bappy mother; "my first husband was quite a different style of a man from my second-complexion, temperament, color of hair and eyes—all different."

This was too much. He had not only married a widow, but was her third husband, and the astounded step father of four chil-"But her fortune," thoughout, "Lill make amends." He spoke of her fortune.

children, The conceit was now quite taken out of the Michigander, who finding that he had made a complete goose of himself, at once retired to a farm in his native state, where he could have a chance to render his "boys' useful, and make them sweat for the deceit practiced upon him by their mother.

WOMEN. Varied as the flowers of earth is the character of women; to a large garden may the whole sex be compared; rank weeds are found there, the sharp stinging nettle and the poisonous nightshade; but likewise are seen blooms of rich beauty-plants of gra ceful growth-the scented rose and climbing jasmine-the painted tulip and the modest lily -all are met in the great parterre of the world blooming side by side, about her irritability which men do not generrally do not possess. A man may swear ed vice. and behave like a brute-such conduct is as common as daisies in summer, but unless he be something below the level of a bully -and that is low enough -he won't keep up an incessant small shot charge of hint an d muendo, and pettish rejoinder-for that is the style of these nettles of the human race, these vegetable blistering plasters of humanity-cross-grained woman. Selections for Scrap Books, No. 4. Two ways of spending a Life-Time.

After I had written to you yesterday, I went with Peter Bedford and Charles on a visit to Newgate. I saw four poor creatures who are to be executed on Tuesday next .prison. It has made me long much that my life may not pass quite uselessly, but that in some shape or other, I may assist in checking and diminishing crime and its consequent misery. Surely it is in the power of all, to do something in the service of their master; Reuben will arrive from the country, and and surely I among the rest, if I were now then I shall have all my children together to begin and endeavor, to the best of my capacity, to serve him, might be the means of good to some of my fellow-creatures. This capacity is, I feel, no mean talent, an! attended with no inconsiderable responsibility: I must pray that I may at length stir myself gustus a saucy boy of twelve. They were up, and be enabled to feel somewhat of the real spirit of a missionary, and that I may devote myself, my influence, my time, and above have all the playthings they yanted.

The "new papa," as soon as he could speak, remarked that Augustus and James did not much resemble Reuben and Amelia.

All, my affectious, to the honor of God, and the happiness of man. My mission is evidently not abroad, but it is not less a mission on that account. I feel that I may journey through life, by two very different paths, and that the time is nov come for choosing which I will pursue. I may go on as I have been going on -not absolutely forgetful of futrity, nor absolutely devoted to it. I may get riches an repute, and gratify my ambition, and do some good and more evil; and, at length, I shall find all my time expended, and in retracing my life, I shall see little "These are my treasures," says she, in the Roman matron style, pointing to her indulgence. I may become a real soldier of indulgence. I may become a real soldier of Christ; I may feel that I have no business

SHALL I BE ONE OF THEM? How divinely full of glory and pleasure shall that hour be, when all the millions of mankind, that have been redeemed by the blood of the Lamb of God, shall meet together and stand around him, with every tongue and every heart full of joy and praisel How astonishing will be the glory and the joy of that day, when all the shall join together in one common song of gratitude and love, and of everlasting thankfulness to their Redeemer! With what unknown delight and inexpressible satisfaction, shall all that are saved from the reins of sin and hell, at lress the Lamb that was slain, and rejoice in his Physical causes perhaps, ran ler dying a gentle falling asleep in some cases; but when he conscience is aprinkled with that blood which cleanseth from all sin, death may well be a season of indescribable peace. It is, however, the life, and not the death, that shows most unerringly a man's religious principles.

Ought not the educating and training up of the youth, both with relation to time and eternity, next to our more immediate duty to God, be the chief concern of every one that really desires the wesfare and enlargement of the borders of Zion .- Beneset.

Afflictions are like a hedge of thorns on each side of the straight and narrow way .-

Baxter. There is more comfort in suffering as the Christian does when God is with him, than can befound by the most prosperous worldling, in his most durling and successful schemes of temporal felicity .- Susan Hun-

Men are called good fellows if they spend their money freely—tip top fellows; and af-ter they impoverish themselves for the benefit of others, and are unable to pay their little debts, they are no longer the good fellows aforesaid-they are rascals. Queer world, and if a man fails to the amount of a million it is all right; but let him fail to the amount of his board bill, und he is a scoundrel .-Promiseuous world. That which is now ill, will never wear well, for there is a curse attends it which wastes it; and the same corrupt dispositions which incline men to sinful ways of getting, will incline them to like sinful ways of spending.

Pronounce not or define of hid secrets, or things that neither help nor hinder, whether it be so or no; but stick you stiffly and stubbornly in earnest and necessary things.—

Anger is the most impotent passion that influences the mind of man; it effects nothing it undertakes; and burts the man who is possessed by it, more than the object against which it is directed.

The only amaranthine flower on earth is irtue; the only lasting treasure, truth.

We often see that scattered by the justice of God, which has been gathered together by injustice.
